Camp Dragonfly is a one-time experience, offered at no cost to children and teens ages 6–17 who have experienced – or are anticipating – the loss of a loved one. Through meaningful activities and shared experiences, youth and their caregivers can process grief, connect with others, and find comfort together.

Pre-registration is required. All children must be accompanied and supervised by at least one adult. One adult may attend with multiple children, and families are welcome to have more than one adult attend with a child.
